Overview

An onslaught of hail in southeastern Texas that destroyed large portions of a massive solar farm is highlighting the perils of trading traditional power sources for vulnerable "green" alternatives and sparking concern about the potential for chemical leaks from the broken panels. Mary Ann Jones, 83, didn't realize this had happened to her until she received a call last year from GoodLeap, a financial technology company, saying she owed $52,564.28 for a solar panel loan that expires when she's 106, and costs more than she originally paid for her house. In a shock for the industry, the latest draft of the One Big Beautiful Bill Act excludes residential solar lease providers from the Investment Tax Credit. Faced by macroeconomic challenges and shifting sands of state. Facing delays and uncertainties from Sunnova's 2025 bankruptcy and dozens of other failures, Texas homeowners navigate abandoned solar systems amid rising rates, policy changes, and industry consolidation.
